ARRESTING NEGROES.

Authorities Think They Have Right Man at Moorestown, N. J.

Moorestown, N. J., Jan. 20.—More than a dozen negroes were arrested yesterday at different places on suspicion of knowing something about the murder of Miss Florence Allison, who was found dead Thursday on the farm of Mrs. Edward Stralbridge.

The arrest considered the most important is that of a colored man employed in the terra cotta works here, who was off duty Thursday and who is alleged to have been in the vicinity of the house about an hour before the murder is supposed to have been committed. The local police express the belief that he is the right man.

There is no mistaking the sentiment of the people if the murderer or murderers are captured. The whole countryside is aroused, and the talk of summary punishment usually heard in a rural community when an atrocious crime has been committed is not absent in this affair. The rewards now total $1,500.

Mrs. Louise Silver's Case Was Particularly Sad.

Burlington, Jan. 20.—The funeral of Mrs. Louise Silver, whose death occurred at the city poor farm Thursday evening, was held yesterday afternoon. The burial will be made in Lake View cemetery this morning.

The circumstances of Mrs. Silver's death are particularly sad and distressing. She was the widow of Albert Silver, once a resident of this city, and had been formerly in comfortable circumstances. Little is known of her history but it is presumed that she was about 75 years of age. She had no known relatives. She had long been living on North Champlain street, and at one time possessed quite a bank account. Without the knowledge of her friends, she sought the shelter of the poor house only a short time ago and an examination of her bank book after her death showed that her savings had dwindled down to $1.50. Discouraged, probably too proud to reveal the true state of her affairs, she entered the almshouse there to end her life in obscurity.

Physicians will be summoned by the town of Williston to determine the man's sanity.

For a time past he has been in Burlington and only a day or two ago went to the police office and asked Chief Russell if he did not want some more help on the police force. He left there saying he was going to try to get employment on the electric cars. He has been doing nothing but walk the streets recently.

Miss Hays was struck by the horse as it was floundering in the water and was rendered unconscious for a time, but her injuries are not considered serious. Some men cutting ice forty or fifty rods away came to their assistance and succeeded in getting the wagon out of the water. The crack was seven feet wide and was filled with snow, so it could not be seen.

MONTPELIER IS WARMING
OVER LICENSE QUESTION

Strenuous Campaign Will Be Waged by the "No" People, With the Belief They Can Put Capital City on Water Wagon.

During the next two months the churches in Montpelier are planning to wage a campaign in favor of no-license holding services, whose license and union meetings occasionally. This question of license or no-license will be the all-important one at the next election. There is said to be a strong sentiment arising in favor of giving no-license a try in that city, and considering that only 33 votes separated the two sides last year the "dry" supporters feel that they have good cause for believing a turn in their favor. It is reported that the business men there, at least a part of them, are anxious to give the "drys" a chance.

Their opponents are arguing for a continuance of the license regime because this will be legislative year in Montpelier and that there will be the usual number of side attractions. Again it is urged that Barre is likely to go yes this year and if Montpelier votes no a considerable number of dollars will be retained in Montpelier. The election promises to be a warm one, with each side claiming the advantage.

TWO WINS FOR SPAULDING

First Team Defeated Marshfield Stars Easily

SHOWING TEAM WORK

Second Spaulding Aggregation Defeated Goddard Second, Montpelier High School Students Beat Waterbury in Two Games.

In a game of basket ball which delighted the hearts of a crowd of cheering high school boys, the Spaulding basketball team defeated the strong Marshfield Stars by the score of 46 to 16, in the Young Men's club gymnasium on Church street last evening. Between the halves of this game and after the last period, the Spaulding second team inflicted a severe defeat on the Goddard seminary second team, the score being 21 to 4. The attendance at the games was not large, it being mostly boys from Goddard and Spaulding. But boys always were noted for their ability to make a noise and last evening's cheering certainly did not sound as if there were a small crowd present.

The game opened at eight o'clock, with Capt. Harvey of the Montpelier Eagles as referee, and Bert Mercer of the Y. M. C. team as umpire. The play began in earnest the minute the ball was thrown up between the opposing centers, Darling and Moore. At previous games a fault of the high school boys has been poor passing and team work, but during the first minutes of play last evening the team showed that their continual practice had remedied that difficulty, for their team play last evening was superb. It took just one minute to make Spaulding's first basket. Roy Darling, tossing the pigskin through the net. The referee gave Spaulding a free shot and Capt. Worthen scored one more point. This seemed to encourage the local boys and they gave a better exhibition of basket ball for the remainder of the game than any Spaulding team ever put up before. Under the leadership of the champion girls' team which the high school had a few years ago.

Walker for Marshfield scored their first basket with a nice one-handed throw. This basket was quickly followed by score by Capt. Worthen, who shot two baskets. The score was 16 to 2. Brown of the Marshfield team then had a streak of luck and made two baskets, followed by G. Brown with another. Spaulding's superior team work then began to count and the visitors were not allowed to score again during the half, except once from the foul line. The score was then in this order: Capt. Worthen one, Roy Darling one, Worthen another and Richard Darling one. This ended the half, the score standing 19 to 11.

The second half opened with Spaulding getting into the game with a better team than they did in the first half. They kept after their opponents so fast and well that the Marshfield boys scored only two baskets during the half, with one point from a free throw. The features of the half were a star basket by Carlswell from one corner of the floor with a man guarding him so closely that it seemed impossible for him to even shoot for a basket, and a basket from the center of the floor by Richard Darling. Everyone on Spaulding's team scored during this half, and everyone played an excellent game.

It would be a difficult matter to say who did the best playing, for each man seemed to remember that he was part of the team and that he was to play for the team and not to make himself a star. The team's passing was almost beyond criticism, showing that a last amount of practice has been put in since the last game. In this period Carlswell shot two baskets, Capt. Worthen two from the floor and three from the foul line, Riley made a nice one when surrounded by a bunch in one corner, Richard Darling secured a fine one from the center of the floor, Roy Darling secured six during the half. For Marshfield F. Brown and G. Brown got the only baskets from the floor and Capt. Walker shot a basket from the foul line.

AN AMUSING GAME.

The Second Team of Spaulding Walked Away With Goddard's Second.

In a very amusing game consisting of one period of 15 minutes between the halves of the "big game" and a 20-minute period after the Marshfield game was finished, the Spaulding second team defeated the Goddard second team by the score of 21 to 4. Neither team having done much practicing the playing was rather ragged, and yet several members of the two teams did some very good individual playing. Chief among these were Arthur Averill and Brown for Spaulding and Merrill for Goddard. During the first half Brown, for Spaulding shot two baskets and Averill one, while Miles scored one from the foul line. For Goddard got the only basket.

Thirty Poultrymen Discuss Plans for Reviving the Granite City Pet and Poultry Association—Another Meeting Next Week.

Men in this city and vicinity interested in poultry, to the number of about 30, met in Snowden & Lyon's store last evening and talked over plans for reviving the old Granite City Pet and Poultry Association. Much interest was shown in the matter and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a meeting next Friday evening to form a permanent association. The interesting fact, as stated, that 41 hen houses were built in a single month was taken as a representation of the amount of interest shown in poultry in this vicinity.

The following men were appointed a committee to see what arrangements could be made for the meeting, next week Friday in the Barre Shoe Company's store: E. M. Lyon, chairman; James E. Mitchell, A. P. Abbott, George Booth, John W. Roberts. Any one interested in the matter is invited to be present at next Friday evening's meeting.

"REAL THEATRICAL BUSINESS."

Lorne Elwyn Company Goes Up Against Tremendous House in Barre.

The management dusted off the "Standing Room Only" sign at the Barre opera house last night for the first time in years. Not since the opening days of the present house has there been such an audience as greeted the Lorne Elwyn company in Barre's famous play, "The Little Minister", the fifth performance in their repertoire. There have been crowds that nearly filled the house, but none for years that actually filled every seat and made standees of a considerable number of people. In fact, the body of the house was sold early in the afternoon, and when the time came for opening the box office there was such a jam that policemen were necessary to preserve order. Every bit of space was utilized both in the body of the house and the balcony, and then the late comers had to resort to those neck stretchers, which are by courtesy called boxes. The four boxes were full, and when the occupants couldn't see the actors they amused themselves by watching the people in the audience, which was an interesting diversion. There were 1,000 people present.

It was what Mr. Elwyn, in a neat little speech before the acts, called "real theatrical business" when the management was forced to go down into the box office and bring up the stray chairs. The popularity of the company and of the play were the magnets. The Elwyn company has had good crowds all the week and "The Little Minister" is always a favorite with Barre audiences. Therefore, the attendance last night, Gladys Gray as Balilde and Mr. Elwyn as the character of the title role were sufficient to carry the piece along swimmingly, and the audience was delighted with the performance. Miss Gray is a Vermont woman, having been born and brought up in the town of Middlebury, so that there was the more interest in her. She has shown herself to be an actress of great versatility. She was presented a beautiful bouquet after the second act of the play and was never without it during the remainder of the evening. The specialties which the company uses are clean and excellent.
